

Quyen Tran, ASC is a Vietnamese-American, Los Angeles-based director and cinematographer. She had her directorial debut on Netflix's Emmy-nominated limited series MAID, for which she received an NAACP "Creative Breakthrough Nomination", and has since directed on other limited series including the Apple anthology series ROAR, THE MADNESS with Colman Domingo, and SIRENS starring Julianne Moore and Meghann Fahy. Her directing credits also include: Season One of THE PITT, which received 13 Emmy nominations; the finale block of the Hulu limited series THE TWISTED TALE OF AMANDA KNOX; Hulu's THE TESTAMENTS, and the finale block of the up-coming Peacock limited series CRYSTAL LAKE, based on the Friday the 13th films.

As a Director of Photography, Quyen most recently filmed Dave Filoni's STAR WARS AHSOKA, which aired to rave reviews on Disney+. Prior to that, Quyen filmed multiple pilots and series, including Peabody Award winning Netflix drama UNBELIEVABLE with director Lisa Cholodenko and starring Kaitlyn Dever, Toni Collette and Merritt Weaver. She filmed pilots and series for HBO, Apple, Netflix, HULU and FX including MINX, HERE AND NOW, and A TEACHER, among others. Her feature PALM SPRINGS premiered at Sundance 2020 and broke the record that year for highest selling film.